Lines of Sight: W.G. Sebald's East Anglia

10 May 2019 – 5 January 2020.

Timothy Gurney Gallery

This unprecedented exhibition celebrates the work of the internationally renowned author W.G. Sebald (1944–2001).

Inspired by Sebald's genre-confounding book The Rings of Saturn (1995), which charts a meandering route around the geography and history of East Anglia, the exhibition presents a uniquely poetic, visual portrait of the region. It brings together a diverse selection of celebrated artworks, curious objects, archive material and the author's own, unseen, photographs, to tell the story behind the creation of one of East Anglia's most famous literary masterpieces.

Part of the W.G. Sebald Season, promoted in partnership with the Sainsbury Centre for Visual Arts.
